

Ways of Giving

There are many ways in which to give a gift to Lassen Community College. Any amount is appreciated and will be used as the donor requests and in accordance with the Foundation's bylaws.

Creating an Endowment: You can establish a lasting gift by creating an endowment to fund scholarships, equipment, or professional development. To learn more about creating endowments please contact the Lassen College Resource Development Department/Foundation at (530) 251-8824.

Major and Capital Gifts: These gifts are used for specific, pre-determined college priorities and provide the donor with an opportunity to permanently link a family or company name with the life and work of Lassen Community College.

Gifts of Securities and other Appreciated Assets: A gift of appreciated assets such as stocks may have significant tax benefits for a donor. Donors may wish to consider donating securities outright or an IRA or a 401K to the Lassen Community College Foundation as part of their estate planning as well.

Gift of Property: The Lassen Community College Foundation also has the ability to accept certain real and personal property.

Gift of Cash: You can make a cash donation through the Resource Development Department/Foundation located in the Administration Building at Lassen Community College.

Donate to a Specific Purpose: You can specify the cause to which you wish your donation to be applied.

Donate by Mail: You can donate through the mail by sending a donation form and check to:
Lassen Community College Foundation P.O. Box 3000 Susanville, CA 96130

Donate Online:

The easiest way to give is through an online donation using your Visa, MasterCard, or Discover Card.
