Planning Review and Revision (PRR) Task Force

The Planning Review and Revision (PRR) Task Force was established in September 2024 to streamline Lassen College's planning and reporting systems in response to updated ACCJC standards. The focus is on simplifying existing processes, improving data use, and aligning planning with accreditation and institutional goals—without major disruption to the college's current structure.

During the 2025–26 transition year, all Non-Instructional Program areas will complete annual reviews to demonstrate how results are being used to inform planning, budgeting, and improvement efforts. This temporary process ensures continued progress in program review while the new planning model is developed and implemented.

The PRR Task Force continues to support the rollout of new benchmarks tied to ACCJC substandards, develop the S4 Master Plan, and oversee the creation of a centralized SharePoint file system and planning calendar. Institutional dashboards have also been updated to provide real-time data, with training planned to help departments use these tools effectively.

By improving existing systems rather than replacing them, the PRR Task Force is helping Lassen College create a more efficient, transparent, and data-informed planning process that supports continuous improvement and institutional effectiveness.

INTRODUCTION/PHILOSOPHY OF COLLEGIAL GOVERNANCE

The Lassen Community College governance structure involves faculty, classified, administration, and students in the planning and operation of the college.

The governance structure and practices embrace the Lassen Community College values of supporting inclusiveness of individual and student outcomes in collaborative decision-making processes; promoting mutual respect and trust through open communication and actions; and fostering integrity as the foundation for all we do. The Governing Board is the final authority for governance at Lassen Community College. The Governing Board delegates authority to the Superintendent/President who in turn solicits and receives input through the governance decision-making process.

TITLE 5 AND PARTICIPATORY GOVERNANCE

Title 5 of the California Code of Regulations, which implements the legislature's intent in passing AB 1725, established relationships among the constituencies within California Community colleges to "ensure faculty, staff, and students the opportunity to express their opinions at the campus level and to ensure that these opinions are given every reasonable consideration, and the right to participate effectively in district and college governance, and the right of academic senates to assume primary responsibility for making recommendations in the areas of curriculum and academic standards." The Lassen Community College District Board adopted policy 2510 to further define the relationship.

In addition, Title 5 states that colleges are to rely on the recommendations of their academic senates on the development of academic and professional matters. (Title 5, Article 2, Section 53200). Administrative Procedure 2510 further states that the Board of Trustees will "rely primarily" on the recommendations of the Academic Senate in the areas of:

- Curriculum, including establishing prerequisites and placing courses within disciplines;
- Degree and certificate requirements;
- Grading policies;
- Educational program development;
- Standards and policies regarding student preparation and success;
- Policies for faculty professional development activities;
- Processes for program review;
- Processes for institutional planning and budget development

Board policy provides that other academic and professional matters such as:

- District and college governance structures, as related to faculty roles;
- Faculty roles and involvement in accreditation processes, including self-study and annual reports; are to be reached through a process of "mutual agreement" by the College President and the Academic Senate.

The Governing Board and Academic Senate will identify the method (rely primarily or mutually agree) to be utilized in consulting collegially at the time when other academic and professional matters are mutually agreed upon.

- Other academic and professional matters as are mutually agreed upon between the governing board and the Academic Senate

For the purpose of shared governance, the Board shall consult collegially with the Associated Student Body on policies that have or will have a "significant effect on students" including the following:

- Grading policies
- Codes of student conduct
- Academic disciplinary policies
- Curriculum development
- Courses or programs which should be initiated or discontinued
- Processes for institutional planning and budget development
- Standards and policies regarding student preparation and success
- Student services and development
- Student fees within the authority of the district to adopt
- Any other district and college policy, procedure or related matter that the District Governing Board determines will have a significant effect on students

The Board shall adopt policies that provide college staff the opportunity to participate effectively in college governance. At minimum, these policies shall include the following:

- Definitions or categories of non-faculty positions or groups of positions that compose the staff of the college which the Board officially recognizes
- Formulation of College policies that the Board determines, in consultation with the staff, are likely to have a significant impact on the staff

PARTICIPATORY GOVERNANCE AT LASSEN COLLEGE

In the participatory governance model, administration operates the college with advice from the college's constituents. The input of the constituents is received via a committee structure. At Lassen College, the use of participatory governance ensures that the voice of all personnel may be heard through constituent groups and representation on standing governance committees.

Purpose of Participatory Governance

- A. Provides the process for participatory development of policies, procedures and recommendations.
- B. Provides the means through which all membership of the academic community – students, faculty, administration, classified and management – can participate effectively in the orderly growth and development of the college.
- C. Results in the functioning of administrative advisory committees, institutional committees, academic senate committees, participatory governance committees, and task forces.

REPRESENTATION IN PARTICIPATORY GOVERNANCE

The governance structure provides for representation from five recognized constituencies at Lassen Community College: students, faculty, classified, management & confidential staff, and administration. The primary responsibilities of representatives are as follows:

- Prepare for and attend meetings
- Participate in discussions
- Communicate with individual constituencies
- Contribute to informed decision-making

Consensus

Participatory governance, including all committees at Lassen College except for those specifically required to use Roberts Rules of Order, involves the use of consensus decision-making. Consensus decision-making is a process that does not involve Robert's Rules of Order or other such rules for committee work. Because of this, consensus decision-making may be unfamiliar to committee representatives. Therefore, each committee should begin the year's work with discussion of the decision-making principles and processes using consensus.

Governance bodies must realize that consensus decision-making takes time and requires a commitment to open discussions.

The following describes some of the essential characteristics of successful consensus decision-making:

- Speaking up: Everyone in the group bears the responsibility of sharing their ideas, opinions, and feelings.
- Consensus does not mean unanimity: As long as all representatives of the governance body have had a chance to speak their minds, a few holdouts do not keep the group from achieving consensus. However, if only a few representatives find the decision acceptable, more dialogue is necessary.
- Silence is not consensus: It is best to ask each person to respond to the issue, if only by nodding. To prevent this from becoming a voting process, it is useful to ask a question like, "Are we all on board?" Also, the Chair might go around the group and elicit responses from every one.
- Holdouts: Holdouts bear extra responsibility for making their positions and feelings clear to the group. When holdouts have difficulty expressing their ideas, objections, or opinions in rational terms – ask them to share their thought and feelings. This leads to greater clarity about their specific objections and/or concerns. Once holdouts have shared their positions or feelings, if general consensus is not changed, they should recognize and accept the fact that the group has heard them respectfully but does not agree with their positions or their point of view. It is not appropriate for the holdouts and the rest of the group to accuse each other of not listening to their points of view when both have had adequate opportunity to present these points of view within the discussion.
- Solidarity: When consensus is used, all governance body representatives must agree to support the decisions of the group, even if they personally disagree with those decisions. This means that they must work to carry out the decisions of the governance body and speak in favor of these decisions when talking to others in the organization. Staying silent in the group, then speaking against the group's decisions undermines the process.

Guidelines for Generating Consensus

1. Clarify the problem or question being addressed.
2. Determine the criteria for a good solution (cost, scale, scope, acceptance, etc.). Ensure that everyone agrees on the criteria.
3. Brainstorm a range of alternative solutions.
 - a. Generate a thorough list of alternatives.
 - b. Do not evaluate the alternatives as they are being generated.
 - c. Write the alternatives in a format that can be seen by everyone.

4. Take a straw poll to check for the possibility of early agreement. If there is only a little disagreement, determine the reasons for the disagreement.
5. Evaluate alternatives according to the criteria you developed. Rule out any alternatives that do not meet the criteria or are rejected by the group after reflection. Determine if any alternatives require further research. If so, make a plan to carry out research.
6. Make a decision/determine final recommendation. Test ways to combine or modify alternatives to meet the interests of as many people in the group as possible. Select one or more alternatives.

LASSEN COLLEGE COMMITTEES

Participatory Governance Standing Committees

Participatory Governance Standing Committees involve developing recommendations on Board Policies, Administrative Procedures, strategic planning, and on the academic and professional matters defined in California Code of Regulations Title 5 §53200.

Members of these committees are selected as outlined by the Participatory Governance and Consultation Council Handbook (i.e. this handbook) and in each constituent bylaws, with appointments made by each respective constituency (administration, management, faculty, classified, and students). Each member is responsible for bringing information and perspectives from that unit or area into the participatory governance committee dialogue as well as for bringing information and perspectives from the committee back to the unit or area.

Meetings conducted by the Board of Trustees and Academic Senate, including subcommittees of these two groups, are required to be conducted in compliance with the Brown Act. All other committees will utilize consensus decision making process; they are not required to conduct meetings in compliance with the Brown Act or Robert's Rules of Order.

For all committees, and permanent subcommittees, and task forces, agendas need to be posted in a timely manner to ensure efficiency and effectiveness of meetings. Agendas and minutes must be recorded and documented for historical purposes, Accreditation, and posted in BoardDocs to promote transparency. Task force committee actions will be reported out to Academic Senate and or Consultation Council.

Operational Committees

Operational committees are focused on the implementation of Board Policies and Administrative Procedures. Operational committees are approved by Consultation Council. Operational committee members are assigned or appointed by virtue of their unique expertise or the position they hold within the College.

Operational committees are charged with the task of collaborating to implement Board Policies and Administrative Procedures, objectives of strategic plans, or any 10+1 processes approved by the Academic Senate.

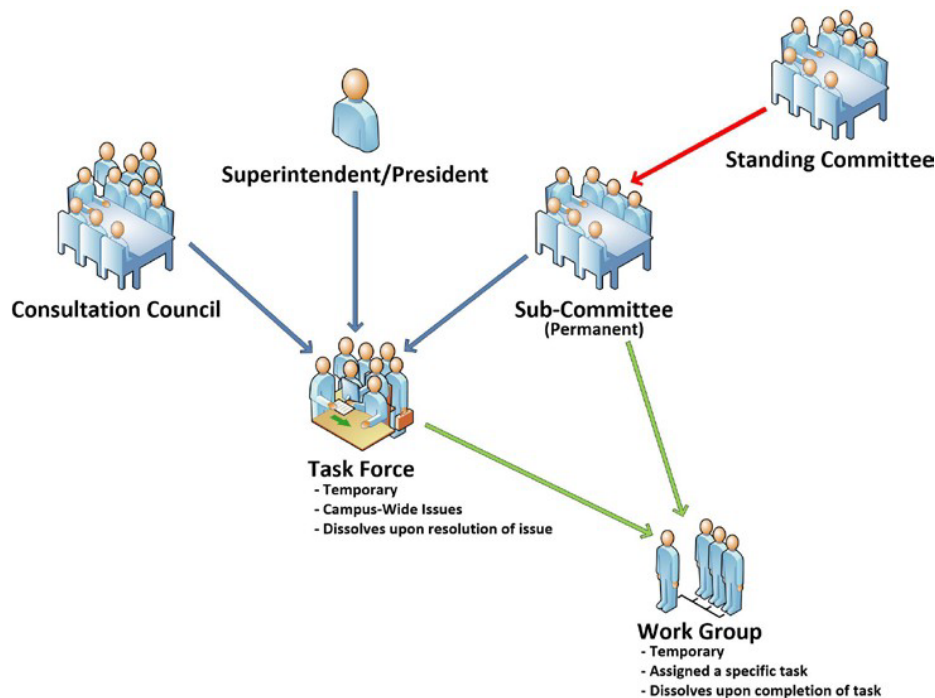

Operational committees are not required to conduct their meetings in compliance with the Brown Act or Robert's Rules of Order. However, norms for collaboration in decision-making as outlined in this document are designed to provide the same type of transparency and openness that is intended by the Brown Act without detracting from efficiency and expediency.

Subcommittees, Task Forces, and Work Groups

There are also committees that provide pathways for participation in college governance and processes while addressing specific issues. In the case of task forces and work groups, as specific issues are addressed, the group is dissolved.

- Subcommittee: A permanent subcommittee is one created by a standing committee to address and make recommendations on a subject. The members need not be from the standing committee or council. A subcommittee shall channel its recommendations or findings to the originating standing committee or council for approvals in continuing the participatory governance process as needed. Subcommittee must produce agendas and publish minutes as required of standing committees.
- Task Force: A group created by Consultation Council or the President to address a special college-wide issue and meet until the issue is resolved. Once the issue is resolved, the task force shall be dissolved.
- Work Group: A work group is created by a standing committee, subcommittee or a task force for a task-related special purpose. A work group meets as needed until the task is finished. A Work Group shall channel its recommendations or findings to the originating standing committee or task force as needed. Once the task is completed, the work group shall be dissolved.

Task forces and work groups shall make their notes available through the originating committee; posting of agendas in advance is encouraged. Operational committees shall maintain meeting records and submit any documentation to the originating committee for accreditation purposes.

GENERAL OPERATIONAL RULES FOR ALL OPEN COMMITTEES

- Open meetings mean that any individual may join and fully participate in the meetings of the governance groups designated as having open meetings.
- In general, a quorum requires more than fifty percent of the committee membership or one member from three of the five constituencies (administration, classified, faculty, management, student) shall be required to conduct business. For specific quorum requirements, look to the committee charge.
- The committee for the subsequent year will be formed in the spring (approximately May) of the previous academic year. New appointees will take office on July 1.
- The chair or co-chairs, of the committee, if not designated, will be elected by the core representatives at the first meeting of the committee in the fall semester. The chair from the previous academic year will call the first meeting.
- Agendas for all open meetings must be available not later than the day prior to the meeting and posted in BoardDocs.
- Minutes for meetings that have them will be distributed one day after their approval and posted in BoardDocs.
- Representatives of various governance groups, bear the primary responsibility for both informing their constituency of the committees' work and informing the committee of the constituency's position on matters under deliberation. It is not the committee chair or college administration's responsibility to inform constituency groups of matters under deliberation by the governance structure.
- Changes to this document must be proposed to the Consultation Council and ultimately approved by the college President and President of the Academic Senate (through Academic Senate action). If a committee wishes to change its charge, representation, or reporting responsibilities, this process must be followed.

Consultation Council Agenda

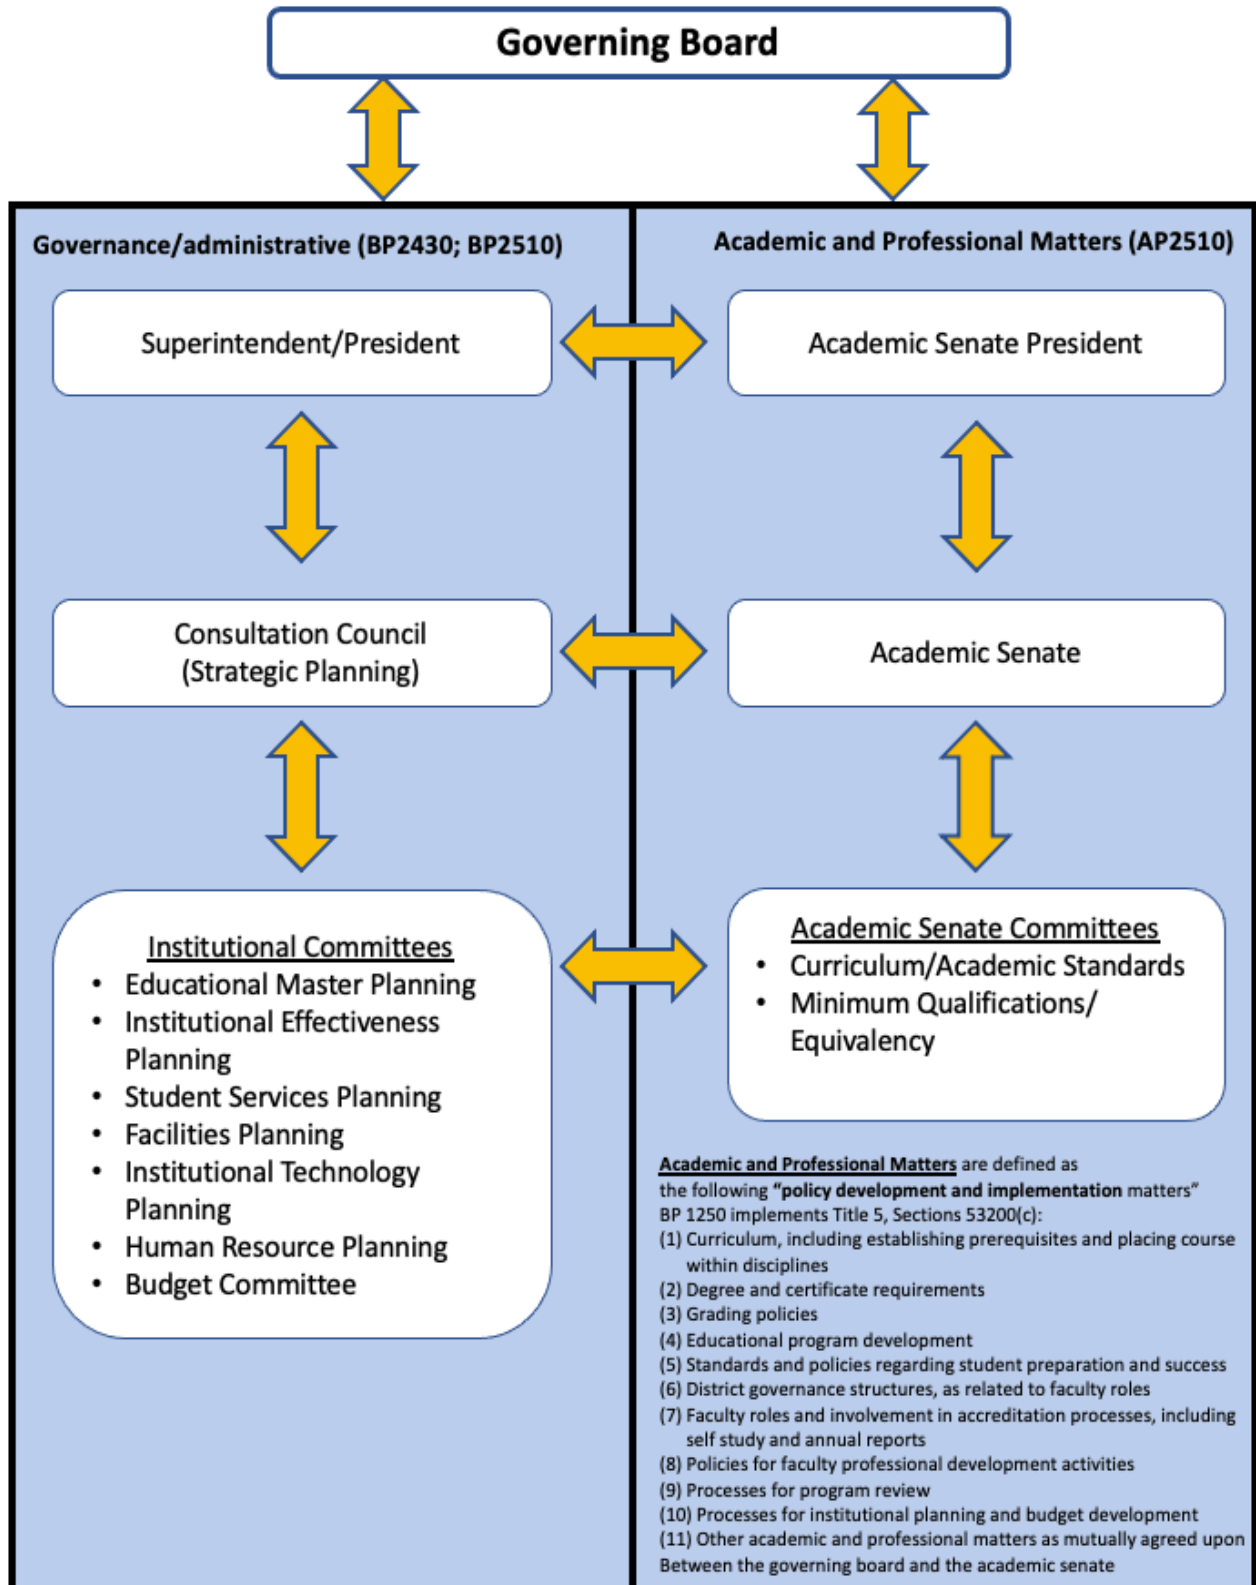

- The Consultation Council Agenda will identify seven categories of items:
 - Governance – recommendations to be developed by the body on policy and strategic planning
 - May require protracted discussions with multiple readings, time for information to be taken back to constituent groups for discussion
 - Results in formal recommendation or acceptance by the body
